PART II.

(CHAPTER I.)

OF THE VERB.

A VERB attributes an act to an agent, or, a state of being to a subject. Verbs sustain no change, whatever number or person may be the agent, or the subject; they are in this respect strictly impersonal; but, verbs sustain a change in respect to the sort of agency emp'oyed; as persona!, or instrumental, and aiso according to the manner of doing or being : as, whether I do to myself, or to another, or, I do to another and he reciprocally does to me: or, when I continue to be or to do: or, when the action is doing again, or when permitted to be done by this, or, that agent; or, by another agent; or, when a thing acts as an agent, or is used as an instrument. Verbs are doubled to denote an increase of the state, or action. Verbs are conjugated by particles, each of which particles, contains in its root the accident attributed to the verb in its various modification : as, assertion, affirmation, negation, privation, tendency, existence, cause, permission, desire, purpose, &c., thus forming moods, tenses, and particles. The particip es are conjugated according to their respective tenses, and are declined, either as verbal tionis, or verbal adjectives.

OF THE KIND OF VERBS.

Verbs are of the following description: viz., active or neuter, both of which are subject to the following accidents: viz.,

1. Active Transitive, or those which denote an action that pusses from the Agent to some external object = as, I strike him, Bún-tán bón báng. This constitutes, the active voice, which states what an agent does to another, or, what another agent does to him, in which latter case it is equivalent to the English passive voice: as, Bun-tán bón literally, strikes him, meaning some agent now strikes him. Equivalent to he is now struck the nom native pronoun, being omitted to call the attention to the object, or accusative pronoun. When the accusative, or object is omitted, the attention is then called to the act which the agent performs: as, Bún-tán báng, I strike, expressed often by 1 do strike.

2. Active-intransitive, or those which express an action which has no effect upon any external object beyond the agent, or agents themselves; that is, the agent is also the object & his own act consequently the verb is necessarily reflex: as, Bún-kil-le-un bang, I struck myself. This constitutes the reflective modification & the verb. No. 2, of the 3 conjugation.

3. Active-transitive-Reciprocal, or those which denote an action that passes from the agent to some external object, which object returns the action to the agent who then becomes the object, and thus they act reciprocally one towards the other. Consequently the dual or plural numbers is always the subject of this form of the verb : as, Bún-kil-lán ba-li, thou and I strike each other reciprocally. Bún-kil-lán ba-ra, they strike each one the other reciprocally, or fight with blows. This constitutes the reciprocal modification. No. 3, ditto.

4. Continuative = as, when the state continues, or the action is or was continued in without interruption: as, Bún-kil-li-lín baug, I am now continuing in the action of making blows. It may be threshing or any other act, as beating, &c. &c. Denominated the continuative, modification, No. 1.

5. Causative by permission, or preventive with a negative = as, when we permit a person to do the act, or another to do the act to him: as, Bum-mun-bil-la-bon, let him strike, Bum-mara-bun-bil-la-bón, cause some one to strike him, or tire equivalent let him be struck. Búm-ma-ra-bun-bi yi ko-ra bón, let no one strike him.

6. Causative by personal agency, or, those which denote the exertion & personal energy to produce the effect upon the object = as, Ti-ir ta un-ni, this is broken. Ti-ir-bung-ngá unni, this is broken; but personal agency is understood equivalent to some person has broken this; or, this is broken by some one. See the 9th Conjugation, Personal agency.

7. Causative by instrumental agency, or those which denote an effect produced by means of some instrument : as, Ti-ir-burre-a unni, this Is broken, by means of something understood.

See the 10th Conjugation.

8. Effective, or, those which denote an immediate effect produced by the agent on the object: as, Umá bang unni, I made this; Pi-tul bang, I am glad, Pitul-má bón bang, I made him glad.

9. Neuter, or, those which describe the quality, state, or existence of a thing : as, Ke-kul lbng unni, this is sweet; Tetti ling un-ni, this is dead; Won-nung ke no-a? Where is he? Un-ni ta, this is it; Mór-rón no-a kut-tán, he is alive; Un-nung no-a ye, there he is. In which the particles, Láng,-ke,-ta, kut-tbn, and, ye, are rendered into English by the neuter verb is.

10. Double, or, those which denote an increase of the stute, or, quality, or, energy = as, Pitul no-a, he is glad; Pi-tul-pitul no-a, he is very glad; Tet-ti bara, they are dead; Tet-ti-tet-téi bara, they are dead or a great death among them; Kau-wul, great; Kau-wul-kau-wul, very great = Tau-wa, eat; Tau-wa-tau-wa, eat heartily.

11. Privative, or those which denote the absence of some property: as, U-mán bang un-ni, I make this or do this; U-pán-bang unni; I do this, not direct on the object itself, but with something or by the means of something as I write on this paper with a quill; U-pán bang unni yiring-ko, wi-yel-li ko, literally I make this quill for to speak or communicate. Whereas U-inin-bang unni yi-ring pen ka-kil-li ko, would mean I make this quill for to be a pen. When the act itself is spoken of privative of existence, it is thus expressed, U-ma-pa bang-ba; Had I made, or if the act existed privative of the effect, produced by the action it would be expressed thus; U-mai ngá bang unni, I had like to have made this.

12. Inn-milaeat, or, those which denote a readiness to be or to do: as Pirriwul ka-té-a kun ko-a bbng, lest I should be king. Bún-té-a kun ko-a bón bbng, lest I should strike him.

13. Inceptive, or those which describe the state as actually begining to exist, or the action going to put forth its energy at the time spoken: as Ka-kil-li ko-lang ba-li, we two are now going to live reciprocally together; Bún-kil-li ko-lang bbng, I am now going to strike.

14. Itterative, or, those which denote a repetition of the state or action: as, Múr-rón ka-tk-a kun-nun, shall live again;

Bún-té-a kun-nun, will strike again.

13. Spontaneous, or, those which denote an act of the agent's own accord: as, Ti-ir kul-lin unni, this is breaking of its own accord, and not by external violence which is shewn in No. 6. Po-ir kul-le-un no-a, he has dropped himself, for, he is just born.

OF THE MOODS.

There are three Moods, viz., the Indicative, the Subjunctive, and the Imperative.

1. The Indicative, which simply declares a thing = as, Bún-tán bbng, I strike; Un-ni ta, this is; the subject; Ngali no-a, this is he; the agent.

2. The Subjunctive, which subjoins something to the cerb: as, wish, Bú-wil báng, I wish to strike, a desire, Bu-wa bang, I desire to strike, or I want now to strike; or, the purpose & the agent: as, Tanán báng u-wá, bún-kil-li ko, I come for to strike, &c, &c, &c.

- 3. The Imperative which expresses the desire of the agent: as, Bú-wa, strike, the person or persons addressed are desired to do theaction. Búm-mun-bil-la, let strike. The person or persons addressed, are desired to permit theperson named to strike; Búm-ma-ra-bun-bil-la, let strike. The person addressed is desired to permit anyone to strike the person named. Bún té-a ka, strike again.—The person or persons addressed is desired to repeat the action. The Imperative form is often used to the first and third person or persons in which sense it denotes the desire of the agent to do the act at the time spoken: as, Bb-wa bánúng, I want to strike thee now; Bu-wa bi-lo-a, he wants to strike thee.
- * Note.—The equivalent in many instances to the English Infinitive mood is the verb in regimen which denotes the purpose of the subject: as Minnaring ko unni? What is this for? Bún-kil-li ko, is the answer, the verb in regimen, for to strike.

OF THE TENSES.

THE VERB.

- 1. The Present, which asserts the present existence of the action or being of a thing at the time in which the assertion is made, to this period it is confined. There is no word for time. The signsof this tense are the following particles affixed to other consonants according to the respective conjugations of the verbs, viz, —an to the simple verb, —lán to the reciprocal verb, and —lín to the participle: as, BGn-tan, now strikes; Bún-ki-lán, now reciprocally strike one another: Bún-kil-lín, now striking; Bún-kil-lín, now continuing in the act of striking.
- 2. The Preter-perfect, which asserts the act as having been completed in a past period of the present day: as, Bún-ké-un, has struck, this morning understood; Bún-kil-lé-un báng, I have struck myself this day,

3. The Perfect past Aorist, which asserts the act as completed, without reference to any particular period in past time:

as, Bún-kul-la, struck. This is not the participle.

4. The Pluperfect, which asserts the act as completed prior to some other past circumstance. It is formed by the affirmative particle ta affixed to the past aorist, and is equivalent only to the English Pluperfect: as, Bún-kul-la ta, had struck.

5, The Future Definite, which asserts the act as taking place in a certain definite future period to the time in which it is spoken: as, Bún-kín, shall or will strike, tomorrow morning understood.

6. The Future Aorist, which asserts the mere future existence of the act without reference to any other circumstance, in some indefinite time to come: as, Bún-nun báng, I shall strike; BGn-nun no-a, he will strike.

THE PARTICIPLE.

1. The Present. This has already been described, it is only necessary to mention, that the present participle can only be used to the present time, and not to the past and future, as is the case in English; Bún-kil-lín, means now striking.

2. The Imperfect Definite, which asserts the action as present in progress at some definite past period: as, Bún-kil-li ké-un, striking, this morning understood.

3. The Imperfect Past Aorist, which asserts the action as present in progress at any recent time: as, Bún-kil-li-él-la no-a, he was striking.

4. The Past Present Aorist, which asserts the action as having been engaged in and completed in some former period : as, Bún-tál-la báng wonnai bám ba, I struck when I was a child ; Wi-yál-la báng wonnai ki-lo-a wonnai bám ba, when I was a child I spake as a child.

5. The Pluperfect, which asserts the action as having been completed prior to some other past event mentioned as, Bun-kil-li-él-la ta, had struck prior to something.

6. The Inceptive Future, which asserts the present action now about to be pursued: as, Bún-kil-li ko-láng báng, I am now going to strike, or, I am going a striking; Ma-ko-ro, fish; Ma-ko-ro ko-láng báng, I am going a fishing.

7. Future Definite, which asserts the action as about to be engaged in at some future definite period : as. Bun-kil-li-kin bring, I am going to strike, to-morrow morning uuderstood.

8. Future Aorist, Which asserts the action will exist in some future unlimited period: as, Bbn-kil-lin-nun báng, I am going to strike, at some time or other, hereafter, &c.

PARADIGM OF THE NEUTER VERB.

1. Conjugation. Indicative Mood, Present Tense.

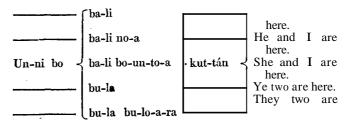

SINGULAR.

Note.—The Idea conveyed in these models, is that the person or persons exists at that place or in such a state as may be substituted in the stead of the adverb: ∞ , Pi-tul-joy. Pi-tul bang kut-tán, for I am Joyful, Glad, &c.

DUAL.

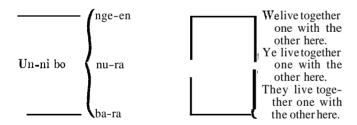

Note.—The ides is as above, only both are the subjects of the verb.

3. Modification Reciprocal.

DUAL.

PLURAL.

Note.—The idea conveyed in the 3d. Modification, when one party is of the feminine gender, is equivalent to saying we are married and live together here, and consequently the verb cannot be used to any but Dual and Plural pronouns. Any of the moods or tenses may be used in the place of the verb, according to their respective Modifications to the above Paradigm.

OF ADVERBS.

It depends on the use of the word, whether it should be denominated a noun, adjective, or, adverb. A name used with the particle of agency would be considered a noun, with another noun, it would become an adjective, and in conjunction with a verb, it is nominated an adverb: as, Pór-ról, Heavy. Pór-ról ta un-ni, This is heavy. Pó-ról noa wiyán, He speaks heavily. Adverbs are classed in the following manner:

1. QE Number.

Wa-kól bo ta, Once only. Bu-16-a-ra bo ta, Twice only-Ngó-ro bo ta, Thrice only. Above which there are no certain numbers.

2. Of Order.

OF CONJUNCTIONS,

The Idiom of the language is such, that sentences connect with sentences without the aid of conjunctions, the subjunctive mood answering all the purposes, The dual number also precludes the necessity of conjunctions to unite two parties. The following are the principal ones: viz., Nga-tun, And. Kul-la, Because, for. Nga-li tin, Therefore, on account of this. But the particles lest, unless, that, and disjunctives are expressed by modifications of the verb in the subjunctive mood, as will be shewn in the illustrative sentences.

OF INTERJECTIONS.

Note. The following are used under the circumstances mentioned.

Wau, Expressive of attention, a call to attend. A, Of attention: as, Lo, behold, hearken. Of wonder, surprise, astonishment.

Ka-ti-o ka-ti-a, Of pain, anguish. Yi-pal-lun, Of sorrow, alas! Of aversion.

Ngi-no-a, Of salutation at parting: as, Farewell, an Idiom.
