It has been found that in many cases the Observing Books would be more useful if retained at the local office. Local information could then be given at once, instead of sending to Sydney for it. Hence it is requested that the Observer will hereafter carefully preserve these books in his office for future reference.

Very T storm with heavy showers during month, but very limited - most of the distinct ones had abundance of rain while others were still so dry that nearly all the stalks here had the round bottom to water and beyond it no green grass. The bottom shores seem to have fallen or the same height on each year.
