A Branch of the N.S.W. State Conservatorium of Music
The Newcastle Conservatorium was established in 1952. A branch of the N.S.W. State Conservatorium of Music, it has enjoyed encouragement and support from the Newcastle City Council and other local bodies. The Foundation Principal was Mr. Harold Lobb, M.B.E., and other Principals have been Mr. Keith Field (1968-73), Mr. Peter Martin (1973-76) and Mr. John Winther (1977-80). Mr. Michael Dudman was appointed Principal in 1980.

Until 1980 the Conservatorium occupied the top floor of the Newcastle War Memorial Cultural Centre in Laman Street. In that year the N.S.W. State Government purchased for the Conservatorium fine new premises in Auckland Street, formerly known as the People’s Palace. The Conservatorium moved there in February 1981, and the State Government is presently undertaking a multi-stage renovation and development of these premises. The initial work consisted largely of the demolition of internal walls to create suitable teaching areas. Subsequent developments have included internal and external painting, and the carpeting of all teaching rooms. Extensive acoustic treatment of the building has been carried out in January and February 1984. The Conservatorium also occupies premises in the adjacent Mackie Building, which presently provides its only large areas for concert activities.

The Conservatorium offers training to some five hundred students in many branches of music, both in full-time professional courses and in single study tuition. The institution makes a rich contribution to the development of the musical life of the region through concerts by staff, students and visiting artists and lecturers. The Conservatorium has a strong reputation for community service and involvement. Each year the Conservatorium collaborates with the Australian Broadcasting Corporation in visiting major centres throughout the Hunter Valley, offering encouragement and guidance to young musicians, teachers and schools and surveying musical needs. New musical ventures within the Conservatorium recently have included the formation of a chamber choir and orchestra, a children’s orchestra, a brass ensemble, a wind quintet, a string quartet and a jazz band; in 1985 these groups of young musicians will perform again at regional centres.

Twelve months ago, we were proud to announce the formation of a professional chamber ensemble, the Newcastle Conservatorium Trio. During a busy year in 1984, the Trio has played for adult and school audiences throughout the Hunter Valley, and this year their concerts will take them much further afield, in a schedule which includes performances for Musica Viva. The Conservatorium regards this development as being of central importance to the development of the institution and of music in the region, and acknowledges with gratitude the support of the Australia Council and the Division of Cultural Activities of the N.S.W. Premier's Department.

The Newcastle Conservatorium is situated in the fine historic building “Brough House” in Church Street, Maitland. Tuition at Maitland is presently available in piano and violin.

PRINCIPAL OF THE CONSERVATORIUM

Michael Dudman studied at the N.S.W. State Conservatorium of Music in Sydney, and upon the award of the Vasanta Scholarship, with Andre Marchal in Paris. During eight years abroad his concerts included recitals at Westminster Abbey and Kings College, Cambridge.
Since 1969 he has been associated with music in Newcastle through its Conservatorium, University, Cathedral and the Australian Broadcasting Corporation. He makes solo and concerto appearances throughout Australia, and records for A.B.C. and Chartreuse. Recent recordings with the Sydney Symphony Orchestra have included concertos by Poulenc, Langalaa, Rheinberger and Dupré. During 1984 he completed a major series of programmes entitled Historic Organs of Sydney, covering thirty instruments.

Michael Dudman is organ adviser to the Sydney Opera House and a member of Council of the Canberra School of Music. He was appointed as Newcastle Conservatorium Principal in 1980. Developments since that time have included the relocation and development of the Conservatorium on the fine Auckland Street site, the initiation of the Community Outreach Programme and the annual joint Conservatorium/A.B.C. Hunter Survey, the formation of new ensembles including in 1982 the Conservatorium Children's Orchestra and in 1984 the Conservatorium Trio, the introduction of chamber music programmes and the upgrading of the D.S.C.M. course.

Commencing in June 1985 he has been granted a period of leave to accept an invitation to become Organist in Residence at Sydney Opera House, and to undertake concert and recording commitments here and abroad.
Robert Constable commenced full-time study at the N.S.W. State Conservatorium of Music in 1970. He graduated in 1973 with first-class honours in both the performers and teachers D.S.C.M. His piano teacher was Gordon Watson. Since his graduation, Mr. Constable has given numerous recitals particularly of 20th century music. He was a foundation member of the Seymour Group Ensemble and with that ensemble, gave many premier performances, particularly of Australian music.

In 1974 he was appointed as a member of the staff of the School of Musicology at the Sydney Conservatorium. In this position he was responsible for teaching courses in music history, theory, layer analysis and aural comprehension. Mr. Constable was Head of School of Musicology from mid 1983 until his appointment as Deputy Principal at the Newcastle Conservatorium in 1984.

During his teaching period in Sydney, Mr. Constable studied conducting with Robert Pikler and studied as an external student with Durham University. He is an honours graduate of that University.

During 1984 Mr. Constable has continued his active involvement in music, giving piano recitals, conducting the orchestra and in teaching. In July of that year he was invited to represent the Conservatorium at the Australian Symposium on Music in Tertiary Education in Perth W.A., where he gave a highly acclaimed paper on the teaching of Basic Musicianship.

Mr. Constable was appointed to the Board of Governors of the N.S.W. State Conservatorium in April 1984 and was re-elected at the end of the year to serve a further term in 1985/86. Mr. Constable is also a member of the Sydney Conservatorium's Board of Studies.

Charles Watts began his violin studies at 9, studying at the Conservatorium of Music in Sydney and with Professor Max Rostal in London and Bern. He taught violin at Cranleigh Public School and at the Guildhall School of Music where he also became conductor of the Junior Orchestra.

Returning to Australia in 1965 he took up a post with the Music Branch of the Tasmanian Education Department taking string classes in schools and leading a quartet. He also became a member of the Tasmanian Symphony Orchestra and broadcast for the A.B.C.

Charles Watts came to the Newcastle Conservatorium as Lecturer in Violin in 1971 and since that time has played an active role in the String Department as soloist and teacher and in orchestral and chamber music activity.

In 1951 he joined the Adelaide Symphony Orchestra playing clarinet, saxophone and bass clarinet. He was subsequently appointed Principal Clarinet, a position which he was next to occupy in the Sydney Symphony Orchestra. With both orchestras he appeared as concerto soloist in works both for clarinet and saxophone. He has toured in Australia both for Musica Viva and A.B.C., for whom he also broadcasts.

Whilst in the Sydney Symphony Orchestra, he was a member also of the Sydney Wind Soloists. His wide teaching experience has included appointments at the Elder Conservatorium and the N.S.W. State Conservatorium in Sydney. In 1982 he joined the staff of the Newcastle Conservatorium as Lecturer in Clarinet.

Final examinations include a public recital, the presentation of chamber music, and the performance of a concerto either with piano Accompaniment or with orchestra, subject to the availability of resources.

Auditions and assessments are conducted each December for applicants seeking admission to the course, and application should be made to the Conservatorium by the beginning of November.

BACHELOR OF MUSIC EDUCATION

The course is a four year full-time course designed primarily for persons who have passed the Higher School Certificate and who wish to train as high school music specialists. The course is conducted jointly by the Newcastle Conservatorium and the Newcastle College of Advanced Education.

The course provides training in the skills necessary to a successful and discerning teacher. The bias in the College component of the course is towards the classroom situation and the development of the student's insight into the relationship between the school and society.

The Conservatorium gives instruction in the theory and practice of Music, providing in depth study of essential music skills and knowledge. Theoretical preparation includes such studies as Harmony, History, Orchestration and Composition.

Formal studies are supplemented by participation in a range of group activities, such as orchestras, ensembles, choirs, concerts, master classes and demonstrations.

In addition to its primary role as a teaching institution, the Conservatorium provides an extensive series of concerts, lectures and demonstrations in Newcastle and throughout the region. The performers include students of all ages. Conservatorium staff and visiting musicians of distinction. In this way the Conservatorium seeks to enrich the cultural life of the region, to act as a music centre for the Hunter Valley, and to create performance opportunities for its own musicians. During 1984 the Conservatorium was responsible for the presentation of 100 concerts, and made substantial contributions also to the concerts of other organisations. A termly Calendar of Events is available on request.
From 1982 onwards the Conservatorium at Newcastle has worked toward the establishment of a resident ensemble, through its Community Outreach Programme which has provided concerts throughout the region by its staff and students, and through pilot tours of the Australia Ensemble. In 1984 these plans came to fruition with the establishment of the Newcastle Trio. The players, Elizabeth Holowell (violin), Susan Blake (cello) and David Jones (piano) are outstanding young Australian musicians on the staff of the Newcastle Conservatorium.

Elizabeth Holowell studied violin with Robert Pikler and Harry Curby at the Sydney Conservatorium. She was a foundation member of the Australian Chamber Orchestra and leader of the Conservatorium Symphony Orchestra. She has appeared as soloist in concertos and recitals on numerous occasions.

Susan Blake studied cello with Lois Simpson at the Sydney Conservatorium and with Heinrich Schiff in Switzerland. Her repertoire and experience, both in solo performance and in chamber music is extensive.

David Jones studied piano with Joan Dawson at the Newcastle conservatorium and Gordon Watson at the Sydney Conservatorium. He is a graduate of both institutions. He has appeared as soloist in concertos and recitals on numerous occasions.

During 1984, in addition to their teaching activities at the Conservatorium, the members of the Trio performed to school and adult audiences throughout the Hunter. They have already established a fine reputation, and during 1985 their concerts will take them beyond the region in appearances for Musica Viva. The formation of the Trio has been made possible by the N.S.W. Premier's Department, and the Australia Council.

The Conservatorium Children's Orchestra was founded by Michael Dudman in 1982. The Conservatorium places importance on this activity as a training ground for young musicians. The orchestra enjoys the support of an enthusiastic committee of parents. It has performed at concerts in Newcastle City Hall, University and Cathedral. In 1984 the children performed at Sydney Opera House, and also supported a number of charity concerts. Under the fine guidance of its foundation conductor Mr. Errol Collins, the orchestra, now numbering seventy youngsters, continues to develop in the most encouraging way.

All full course students participate either in choir or orchestra. The choir performs at several concerts each year and works studied and performed have included Messiah, the Haydn Nelson Mass, the Vivaldi Gloria, the Bach motet Jesu meine Freude, the masses by Mozart and Schubert. During 1984 the Chamber Choir and Orchestra performed in concerts in Sydney and Newcastle, including a performance of Handel's Judas Maccabaeus with the Little Australian Chamber Orchestra.
