NEWCASTLE BRANCH
Principal Michael Dudman,

NEWCASTLE CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC
Auckland Street, Newcastle, N.S.W. 2300.

(049) 2 3961, 2 3967
The Newcastle Conservatorium was established in 1952. A branch of the NSW State Conservatorium of Music, it has enjoyed encouragement and support from the Newcastle City Council and other local bodies. The Foundation Principal was Mr Harold Lobb, MBE, and other Principals have been Mr Keith Field (1968-73), Mr Peter Martin (1975-76) and Mr John Winther (1977-80). Mr Michael Dudman was appointed Principal in 1980.

Until 1980 the Conservatorium occupied the top floor of the Newcastle War Memorial Cultural Centre in Laman Street. In that year the NSW State Government purchased for the Conservatorium fine new premises in Auckland Street, formerly known as the People's Palace. The Conservatorium moved there in February 1981, and since that time the State Government has undertaken a multi-stage renovation and development of these premises. The initial work consists largely of the demolition of internal walls to create suitable teaching areas. Subsequent developments have included internal and external painting and the laying of carpet throughout. Extensive acoustic treatment was carried out in 1984 and new studios erected and equipped in 1985.

The Conservatorium offers training to some five hundred students in many branches of music, both in full-time professional courses and in single study tuition. The institution makes a rich contribution to the development of the musical life of the region through concerts by staff, students and visiting artists and lecturers. The Conservatorium has a strong reputation for community service and involvement. Each year the Conservatorium collaborates with the Australian Broadcasting Corporation in visiting major centres throughout the Hunter Valley, offering encouragement and guidance to young musicians, teachers and schools and surveying musical needs. New musical ventures within the Conservatorium recently have included the formation of a chamber choir and orchestra, a children's orchestra, a brass ensemble, a wind quintet, a string quartet and a jazz band. These ensembles of young musicians have given concerts at centres throughout the region as part of the Conservatorium's Community Outreach Programme. The Conservatorium's professional Piano Trio, the Newcastle Conservatorium Ensemble, has acted as a spear-head for this activity, performing to school and community audiences; the Conservatorium acknowledges with gratitude the support of the Office of the Minister for the Arts, and the Australia Council.

During 1985 plans were announced in two further areas of exciting development. The Premier of New South Wales, the Honourable Neville Wran, Q.C., M.P. announced that as part of the Bicentennial Programme a Conservatorium performance hall would be built on land adjacent to the Conservatorium at a cost of four million dollars. This project will crown the development of the institution, and will provide Newcastle with one of the finest facilities in the country. The project is to be undertaken by the Government Architect's Branch of the Public Works Department, and the Project Architect is John Carr.

To accompany this splendid development, administration changes will be introduced in 1986 granting the Conservatorium at Newcastle a high degree of autonomy, whilst continuing to share its strong and fruitful relationships with the New South Wales State Conservatorium as a whole.

Michael Dudman studied at the NSW State Conservatorium of Music in Sydney and upon the award of the Vasanta Scholarship, with André Marchal in Paris. During eight years abroad his concerts included recitals at Westminster Abbey and Kings College, Cambridge.

Since 1969 he has been associated with music in Newcastle through its Conservatorium, University, Cathedral and the Australian Broadcasting Corporation. He makes solo and concerto appearances throughout Australia and records for ABC and Chartreuse. Recent recordings with the Sydney Symphony Orchestra have included concertos by Poulenc, Langlais, Rheinberger and Dupré. During 1984 he completed a major series of broadcast programmes entitled Historic Organs of Sydney, covering thirty instruments.

Michael Dudman is organ adviser to the Sydney Opera House and a member of Council of the Canberra School of Music. He was appointed as Newcastle Conservatorium Principal in 1980. Developments since that time have included the relocation and development of the Conservatorium on the fine Auckland Street site, the initiation of the Community Outreach Programme and the annual joint Conservatorium/ABC Hunter Survey, the formation of the new ensembles including in 1982 the Conservatorium Children's Orchestra and in 1984 the Conservatorium Trio, the introduction of chamber music programmes and the upgrading of the D.S.C.M. course.

In 1985 he was awarded a Churchill Fellowship. He was granted a six month period of leave to accept an invitation to become the first Australian Artist-in-Residence at Sydney Opera House, where he gave sixteen concerts from June to August. From September to November he made a major tour of the United States, recording at New York, Worcester, Boston, Methuen, Rochester, Saint Paul, Baltimore and Honolulu. These concerts will be broadcast nationally by the ABC this year as a series, Great Organs of America.
Robert Constable commenced full-time study at the NSW State Conservatorium of Music in 1970. He graduated in 1973 with first class honours in both the performers and teachers D.S.C.M. His piano teacher was Gordon Watson. Since his graduation, he has given numerous recitals particularly of 20th century music. He was a foundation member of the Seymour Group Ensemble and with that ensemble, gave many premiere performances, particularly of Australian music.

In 1974 he was appointed to the staff of the School of Musicology at the Sydney Conservatorium. In this position he was responsible for teaching courses in music history, theory, layer analysis and aural comprehension. During his teaching period in Sydney, he studied conducting with Robert Pikler and studied as an external student with Durham University. He is an honours graduate of that University.

Since coming to Newcastle, Robert Constable has continued his active involvement in music, giving piano recitals, conducting the orchestra and teaching. In July, 1984 he was invited to represent the Conservatorium at the Australian Symposium on Music in Tertiary Education where he gave a highly acclaimed paper.

Kevin Murphy studied with the distinguished clarinettist Edward Simson at the Conservatorium in Sydney. Early experience was gained in the Tivoli Theatre Orchestra, the ABC National Military Band, and with JC Williamson's theatre, performing music for ballet, musical comedy and opera.

In 1951 he joined the Adelaide Symphony Orchestra playing clarinet, saxophone and bass clarinet. He was subsequently appointed Principal Clarinet, a position which he was next to occupy in the Sydney Symphony Orchestra. With both orchestras he appeared as concerto soloist in works both for clarinet and saxophone. He has toured in Australia both for Musica Viva and ABC, for whom he also broadcasts.

Whilst in the Sydney Symphony Orchestra, he was a member of the Sydney Wind Soloists. His wide teaching experience has included appointments at the Elder Conservatorium and the NSW State Conservatorium in Sydney. In 1982 he joined the staff of the Newcastle Conservatorium as Lecturer in Clarinet.

Robin Fischle graduated with a Bachelor of Arts from Sydney University in 1970. Concurrently with university studies he continued his study of the French Horn at the Conservatorium in Sydney with Alan Mann.

He joined the Sydney Elizabethan Trust Orchestra in 1970, a position which he held until 1982, when appointed as Lecturer in Brass at the Newcastle Branch of the NSW State Conservatorium. He has been responsible for the formation and training of the Conservatorium Brass Ensemble.
In addition to his experience in opera and ballet, he has played in the Sydney Philharmonic Orchestra, the Melbourne Philharmonic Orchestra and the Carl Pini Chamber Orchestra. His interests include a practical knowledge of the commercial recording industry and commercial theatre.

Returning to Australia in 1965 he took up a post with the Music Branch of the Tasmanian Education Department taking string classes in schools and leading a quartet. He also became a member of the Tasmanian Symphony Orchestra and broadcast for the A.B.C.

Charles Watts came to the Newcastle Conservatorium as Lecturer in Violin in 1971 and since that time has played an active role in the String Department as soloist and teacher and in orchestral and chamber music activity.

NIGEL BUTTERLEY

Nigel Butterley has been lecturer in Contemporary Music at Newcastle Conservatorium since 1973. Before that, for some eighteen years, he was a member of the music staff of the Australian Broadcasting Commission, responsible for the production and planning of radio and concert programmes. In 1978 he spent some weeks as a visiting scholar at North-Western University, Illinois, where several of his works were performed, and during the following year he was composer in residence at the University of Melbourne.

One of Australia's leading composers, Nigel Butterley came into prominence at the beginning of the 1960's. After study in London with Priaulx Rainier, the first performance of his Laudes, at the 1964 Adelaide Festival, is generally considered a turning point not only in
In 1966 Butterley was awarded the Italia prize for In the Head the Fire, a work for radio. Among his orchestral works are a violin concerto, a symphony and Fire in the heavens, first played by the Cleveland Orchestra, conducted by Lorin Maazel, during the Festival for the opening of the Sydney Opera House. Several of his works have been recorded, most notably Sometimes with One I Love, a setting of poems and prose of Walt Whitman, released in 1981 by EMI.

Nigel Butterley has always been active as a pianist, and is a noted exponent of contemporary music. He was for several years a member of the Sydney based Renaissance Players, and has played harpsichord and chamber organ continuo in numerous performances of baroque music.

During 1985 Nigel Butterley was on leave. He was awarded the prestigious Australia Council Composer Fellowship to work on his opera, Lawrence Hargrave Flying Alone, which has been commissioned by the Conservatorium Opera School for the Australian Bicentenary celebrations.

Kenneth Wiseman completed his secondary education at St. Mary’s College, Grafton in 1951. His early working experience included six years in local government with the Northern Rivers County Council. In 1960 he moved to Sydney where he was employed for three years by private enterprise within the airline industry.

In 1963 he joined the clerical division of the NSW State Public Service where he was initially engaged as a Clerical and Administrative Officer and next as a Court Officer within the Housing Commission of NSW. He was promoted to the Department of Education in 1969. Since then his varied experience has included service with the State Library of NSW and the Tamworth based, North West Regional Office, where he performed the duties of Regional Accountant. Kenneth Wiseman acquired his present position of Registrar in 1972 and has since successfully completed a Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Newcastle.

Over the past six years he has undertaken and is now in the final stages of completion of detailed research into the development of the Newcastle Branch of the Conservatorium entitled From Park to Palace.
CONCERTS

In addition to its primary role as a teaching institution, the Conservatorium provides an extensive series of concerts, lectures and demonstrations in Newcastle and throughout the region. The performers include students of all ages, Conservatorium staff and visiting musicians of distinction. In this way the Conservatorium seeks to enrich the cultural life of the region, to act as a music centre for the Hunter Valley, and to create performance opportunities for its own musicians. A special feature of the Conservatorium's concert activity is a series of lunchtime concerts which have become a feature of the musical life of the city. Major concerts include the presentation of large scale choral and chamber music performances, in addition to solo recitals by Conservatorium staff, students and distinguished visiting artists.

THE NEWCASTLE CONSERVATORIUM ENSEMBLE

From 1982 onwards the Conservatorium at Newcastle has worked toward the establishment of a resident ensemble, through its Community Outreach Programme which has provided concerts throughout the region by its staff and students, and through pilot tours of the Australian Ensemble. In 1984 these plans came to fruition with the establishment of the Newcastle Trio. The players, Elizabeth Holowell (violin), Belinda Manwaring (cello) and David Jones (piano) are outstanding young Australian musicians on the staff of the Newcastle Conservatorium.

Elizabeth Holowell studied violin with Robert Pikler and Harry Curby at the Sydney Conservatorium. She was a foundation member of the Australian Chamber Orchestra and leader of the Conservatorium Symphony Orchestra. She has appeared as soloist in concerts and recitals on numerous occasions.

Belinda Manwaring studied in Sydney at the Conservatorium with Lois Simpson. Upon her graduation in 1982 she was awarded a Queen Elizabeth II Silver Jubilee Prize to study with Radu Aldulescu at the Menuhin Music Academy in Switzerland. She has played in numerous orchestras throughout Europe.

David Jones studied piano with Joan Dawson at the Newcastle Conservatorium and Gordon Watson at the Sydney Conservatorium. He is a graduate of both institutions. He has appeared as soloist in concerts and recitals on numerous occasions.

During 1984, in addition to their teaching activities at the Conservatorium the members of the Trio performed to school and adult audiences throughout the Hunter. They have already established a fine reputation, and during 1985 their concerts took them beyond the region in appearances for Musica Viva. The formation of the Trio has been made possible by the NSW Premier's Department and the Australia Council.

In 1984 and 1985 the children performed at Sydney Opera House and also supported a number of charity concerts. Under the fine guidance of its foundation conductor Mr Errol Collins, the orchestra, now numbering seventy youngsters, continues to develop in the most encouraging way.
