UNIVERSITY FUNDING - 1978

The announcement of the guidelines for University Funding for 1978 has brought forth considerable criticism and disappointment within University circles. Whilst the full implications for each individual University will probably remain uncertain until the August budget session, the Chairman of the Australian Vice-Chancellors' Committee, Professor Sir Zelman Cowen, has expressed the general concern and disappointment of all the Universities at the outcome. They had placed great reliance on the repeated assurances that universities could proceed for 1978 and 1979 in their planning on the basis of a minimum growth of 2 per cent on the level of expenditure in the preceding year. The universities understood the difficulties with which the Government was faced in budgeting and recognized the need to practice economies, but the assurance given to the universities had been clear. It had been apparent that 2 per cent real growth for the university system as a whole in 1978 had meant no growth at all, and a static state for a substantial number. It was understood that the 2 per cent would be absorbed for certain distinct and unavoidable commitments, particularly in newly established universities, and by inescapable cost increases in all universities, notably the heavy cost of salary and wage increments and the maintenance and supplementation of superannuation schemes.

The Universities Commission had argued that 3½ per cent real growth was appropriate to the needs of the universities and the Commission had specially stressed the importance of maintaining comprehensive cost supplementation to take account of the ravages of sharp inflation. Now supplementation was to be confined to the salary and wage component of university costs: for other costs, which included equipment, library, research and a variety of goods and services, there would not be supplementation and there would be no supplementation for such capital construction as would be made available.

In 1978, unavoidable cost increases, the costs of increments, superannuation, and other costs - and the obligation to bear the substantial cost increases without supplementation, would mean that there would be substantial reduction in real resources. The guidelines stated that universities were expected to maintain their intakes at 1977 levels, but the pressures on them would now be such that they would experience great difficulties in maintaining existing courses and services, and each university would need to examine as a matter of urgency which commitments it might reduce in order to live within the funds available to it. The guidelines stated that for the tertiary system as a whole 2 per cent growth would apply in 1979 and 1980. Circumstances could change again and the universities could not plan with any confidence. If forward commitment were uncertain, the benefits of the triennial system would disappear and universities would, in effect, operate on annual funding. That would be a very retrograde step.

Sir Zelman said that these points had been made in a letter to the Prime Minister when reports of reduction in funding appeared in the press a few weeks ago. Sir Zelman also said that the Australian Vice-Chancellors' Committee had requested a meeting with Senator Carrick, and the Minister had agreed to meet the Committee in the near future.

Speaking in respect of the situation for Newcastle University, the Vice-Chancellor, Professor George, indicated that the Global Budget Advisory Committee would be meeting shortly to review what could, or should, be done now towards preserving our financial position in 1978. He did not expect that the financial stringency would lead to any staff redundancies, although it was clear there would be little if any funding for new developments next year. It is assumed that the earmarked grant for the new Medical School will permit its growth to continue as planned, although the support facilities needed from general recurrent funds (e.g. in the area of the library) will be very difficult to provide.

One major problem he said, lay in the internal allocation of funds between academic departments. Fifteen departments had reduced student loads in 1972 compared to 1976 and although the remaining departments had increased loads, in a position of static or reducing funding it was extremely difficult to reallocate resources to meet the legitimate expectations of growing departments for additional staffing.

The Vice-Chancellor's Second Term Meeting with Staff will be held in the ARTS/DRAMA THEATRE on Tuesday, June 28, 1977 at 1.0 p.m.
UNIVERSITY GOVERNMENT

In the most recent NEWS (June 2, 1977), the decision of Council regarding the method by which Headships of Departments will be determined in the future was briefly outlined. The decision taken was based on principle and before implementation can be effected, will require the appropriate By-Laws and Regulations to be spelt out in careful detail for consideration by Council. This task, as with the other Council decisions on University Government, will be undertaken by its By-Laws and Constitutions Committee, which then reports back to Council.

It should be noted, of course, that any By-Law change requires the approval of the Governor and must be tabled in each House of the State Parliament, as set out in Clause 24 of the University Act. Amendments to the Act itself are involved in some of the earlier decisions by Council (NEWS, May 5, 1977) and will require full consideration, and debate, in the State Parliament. Of all the issues facing Council's Committee on University Government, that of how to appoint Heads of Departments was probably the most difficult and contentious. The White Paper made one set of recommendations, but these were considerably modified in the final Report to Council as a consequence of further submissions received and lengthy committee debate and consideration. In the event, Council's decision represented a further slight shift of opinion although the essential features of the Blue Paper's recommendations were retained. It is perhaps not surprising that a compromise solution should have been reached by such divergent views were so strongly held and it is to be hoped that the final result will not be one that ends up pleasing no one.

The decision clearly represents a significant shift away from the existing and traditional basis of appointment of Head of Department adopted by the University from its inception. In the NEWS of June 2 it was stated that the existing method is for the Vice-Chancellor to make recommendations after he has consulted with the departmental staff. This has only occurred where special circumstances have arisen, as in single Professor departments no flexibility currently exists. The Professor concerned is “it”. The Blue Paper pointed out that some Heads of Departments are acting on a matter over a two-year (or other specified) term of appointment, whereas others hold office as part of their original appointment to the University. Such cases are to be discussed by the Head of Department and the Vice-Chancellor with a view to such appointments being varied to conform with the new practices. This, and other transitional arrangements to be made, will be looked into during the coming months whilst a date is sought for the approval of the new By-Laws by the Governor.

One of the criticisms received of the White Paper and of the final Report was the absence of any discussion of the role of the Vice-Chancellor in the University as a whole. By-Law 3.2 sets out the responsibilities of this office-holder in a way which some may consider inadequate, but nevertheless makes quite clear the requirement that executive action is "subject to the Act and to the By-Laws and to the direction and control of the Council." It is important that every effort be made to give the new procedures a real chance of success in the interests of staff, students and the University generally. This was certainly my personal undertaking to Council.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,

Many people within the University are expressing strong concern and disappointment following the recent statement of Senator Carrick, which outlined the very real cuts in Government expenditure in the education sector and drew another nail into the hopes of students who depend on government allowances with his announcement of a loans scheme for students.

These policy developments parallel a campaign being conducted in newspapers and magazines to discredit tertiary education in this country as wasteful, preparing the public for massive cuts in education and social welfare spending. While such nasty groups as the SRC and AUS have been vocal in defending the interests of students and tertiary education generally, with a minimum of support from the rest of the university community, it must be becoming obvious to the most mild-mannered member of the public that this University, in particular, is entering a period of crisis in finance and student numbers.

It will probably be necessary for this University to engage in painful cost-cutting exercises, cutting back existing commitments and deferring proposed developments. It is vitally important that this does not lead to an atmosphere of distrust and secrecy as people try to defend their interests at the expense of others. All decision making must be as open as possible, providing continuing information to every member of the University community as the Administration tries to plan for the future. It will become increasingly important for this paper to keep students and staff fully informed as decisions are made, for this information to become increasingly open and for students and staff to demand information so that the University community may positively approach its uncertain future as a united body with confidence in its leadership.

LEO WALSH
SRC PRESIDENT

Dear Sir,

I have been very interested for some time in the idea of gaining support for an Art/Music centre on campus. I believe that it would be an excellent place for students to enjoy creative pursuits in their spare time. It could also serve as a place to exhibit artwork and host student bands to rehearse, perhaps even as a place to compose original music. As there will be some space remaining in the Medical buildings, or even the proposed Services centre for student bands to rehearse, perhaps even as a place to compose original music.

UNIVERSITY PREPARES MAJOR PRODUCTION

Preparations are almost complete for the mounting of one of Dorothy Hewett's plays at the University. It will be a major production, with the University giving financial support, a number of Departments helping out and a professional actress playing the lead.

The play, Bon Bons and Roses for Dolly, will be presented in the Arts/Drama Theatre from July 4 to 16.

The venture is to celebrate Dorothy Hewett's presence on the campus as Writer-in-Residence until the end of this term.

Bon Bons and Roses for Dolly will draw mainly on the skills of the Department of Drama, which conceived and has the responsibility for mounting the production.

Additionally, the Vice-Chancellor, the Department of Community Programmes, Convocation and the Union Board of Management have agreed to give support.

The production is set in the foyer of an old-time cinema, the Crystal Palace, which has necessitated elaborate staging, including the construction of a 40-feet high roller scrim for more than $1,000.

Overall, the budget for set requirements, costumes, press's fees, publicity and other expenses exceeds $6,000.

The producer, Mr. R. Page, Lecturer in Drama, is working in close collaboration with Dorothy Hewett as the play is rehearsed and set preparations are made.

Mr. Page has organised a variety of people for the production. Denise Otto, an established actress (What the Butler Saw, Babana Corpse, the Aunty Jack Show), will play the lead. Also in the cast are Ted Miller, a Newcastle actor/dancer, Bruce Knappett, formerly of the Pram Factory, Melbourne, now a member of the Drama Department's staff, Lucy Wagner and Sean Newey, students of the University who acted professionally in England. Sally Begbie, Drama I student, John Doyle, Newcastle schoolteacher and singer and Robert Clark, Drama III student.

The set design was executed by an English stage designer, David Wood, and constructed by Theatre Crafts and Prompt Scenery, of Sydney. Mr. W. McLennan, Custodian of the Arts/Drama Theatre, is also contributing to the set.

The musical score, written by Mervyn Drake, was transcribed for the organ by Peter Brock. Penny Biggins plays the organ for the production.

Dramatist to Address Graduates

Dorothy Hewett, the University's Writer-in-Residence, will give an address at the Annual General Meeting of Convocation.

The meeting will be held at Newcastle Masonic Club, First Floor Lounge, 23 Bolton Street, Newcastle on Thursday, June 23, at 7.30 p.m.

The agenda for the meeting provides among other things for the filling of four vacancies on the Standing Committee of Convocation.

Dr. F. J. Purdie, Mr. G. Mitchell, Mr. B. Young and Mrs. E. Morrison are due to retire. Mr. Young and Mrs. Morrison, having filled two casual vacancies, will step down but may be eligible for re-election.
STAFF MEMBER APPOINTED TO SCIENCE BODY

Professor Brian Anderson, Professor of Electrical Engineering and an expert on control and communication systems, is a member of the Federal Government's new advisory body, the Australian Science and Technology Council.

Convocation members are to be entertained by the Hunter Valley Theatre Company in a not-too-formal way on June 28. Kodachrome Ketchup and Pantechnicon are community programmes offered by the Hunter Valley Theatre Company which has been playing recently to students in Newcastle secondary schools. Lasting for 80 minutes, the two programmes have been highly acclaimed. The Hunter Valley Theatre Company will present Kodachrome Ketchup and Pantechnicon for members of Convocation and their friends at The Old Hill High School at the corner of Tyrrell and Brown streets, Newcastle.

The theatrical programme has been devised and directed by Michael Caulfield, who also composed the music and appears in the cast. The others are Claire Crowther and John Stone. There will be a charge of $2 a head and a supper suitable for a winter night will be provided.

Research Grants Awarded to Staff Members

Three staff members have been awarded medical research grants valued at $112,830 by the National Health and Medical Research Council. Professor B. Bailey, of the Department of Biological Sciences, has been awarded continuing grants of $30,287 for this year and $31,315 for 1978 for a project in connection with genetic markers in Australian aborigines and the investigation of tribal structure. Dr. P. Morgan, of the Division of Clinical Practice of the Faculty of Medicine, has received $19,290 for this year, $14,888 for 1978 and $14,700 for 1979 for a new research project in connection with the control of water metabolism. Dr. J. Quinn, of the Department of Biological Sciences, has been awarded $1,500 this year and $1,650 for a new research project in connection with fertilization and development of mammalian ovary oocytes matured in vitro.

Bridge players from across the University are being approached with a view to a University of Newcastle team entering the next Intervarsity Bridge Contest. The University of Wollongong will host to members of Bridge teams from Australian Universities from August 29 to September 2. Every one of the Universities can enter four teams for the Teams Competition. Each team has four players. Every one of the Universities can also enter nine pairs for the Pairs Competition. The host University is making arrangements for the visiting Bridge players to be given cheap accommodation for the contest. Associate Professor W. Wallis (Mathematics) is in charge of arrangements for the University's team and would like to hear from prospective players. Staff members can participate. Professor Wallis is able to provide information about the NSW Students' Bridge Pairs Championships to be held in Sydney on September 18.

THE NEWCASTLE GALLERY SOCIETY

The Newcastle Gallery Society was formed in 1960. Its principal aims are to stimulate interest in the Newcastle City Art Gallery, to promote the continued growth of the Gallery, and to foster an appreciation of the arts in the community. You meet interesting people through the Society and participate in a wide range of enjoyable activities. A programme of educational and social events is arranged each year and includes regular lectures and films on the arts, previews of exhibitions, demonstrations, discussions and musical recitals. As a member of the Gallery Society you will receive invitations to social functions and openings in the Gallery. Members also receive entries to special events, copies of the Society's publication Artemis and current information on the Gallery. Membership brings you in touch with others interested in art but more especially with artists, art critics and historians. It is also a practical way to help your Gallery. The Society from time to time presents works of art to the Gallery in addition to establishing special purchasing funds and encouraging endowments. Reciprocal privileges exist with other Gallery Societies throughout Australia. Joining the Society is an ideal way to get to know your Gallery better and enjoy and understand its collection and visiting exhibitions. At the same time you enjoy the privileges of membership. You can apply to join the Society by obtaining a form from Mrs. M. Shilcock, the Deputy Vice-Chancellor's Secretary in Room G43 (Arts), Ext. 343.

FRANK ROONEY MEMORIAL FUND APPEAL

We are pleased to announce that an amount of $165.73 has been given to the Royal Newcastle Hospital as a result of the above appeal. The Hospital has been asked that, if possible, the amount be used to purchase a reclining chair for the dialysis room of the Renal Ward. It is intended that a plaque be purchased and suitably inscribed and affixed to the chair.

We gratefully thank our colleagues who supported this appeal. Receipts for donations will be forwarded as soon as they are received from the Hospital.

RESIGNATION AFTER MILLIONS OF COFFEE

A woman who made millions of cups of coffee for patrons of the Union, but never tired of doing it, resigned on June 10.

Mary Maddison, who worked in the Coffee Bar continually since the Union opened at Shortland in 1966, was farewelled at a staff luncheon.

"Although I've scolded students on occasions, they've come back. I have a very high regard for students and have thoroughly enjoyed working at the University", Mary stated.

A Musical Play
by

DOROTHY HEWETT

Three generations of Australians and a dream palace cinema built for Jolly .... But the movies' golden years made promises of youth and happiness which real life could never keep.

Starring: Denise Otto

Performances: Monday to Saturday July 4th - 16th

ARTS/DRAMA THEATRE 8.15p.m.

GALA OPENING: JULY 4th with Champagne supper $5

THE "major domo of the Coffee Bar", as she was described, was one of two Union employees who started work when the building opened. Ada Staader and Mary Maddison joined the Union at the same time. Freda Bartlett and Daphne Gray have had even longer service than Mrs. Maddison and Mrs. Staader. They moved with the Union from the old site at Tigne's Hill.

Mary's sons, Ken and Keith Maddison, played Rugby League and transferred from West to St. George (Sydney) in 1966, giving Mary the opportunity to look for a job. She turned naturally to the University as her home is at Jesmond.

The Secretary/Manager (Mr. V. Bridgewater) praised Mary for her sterling efforts on behalf of the Union, for her service on the Union Board (1975 to 1977), for her Rugby League comments and her advice to the lovelorn and made a presentation of a set of crystal glasses. The President of the Students' Representative Council (Mr. Leo Walsh) made a presentation on behalf of students.
ANSWERS TO WEIGHT, SKIN AND OTHER PROBLEMS

The Health Service with the co-operation of the SRC has invited two Dietitians from Royal Newcastle Hospital to the University to speak to both Students and Staff.

At 1 p.m. on 28th June in the Union Courtyard (weather permitting), Misses Christine Eley and Sheila Maunsch will speak and answer questions about diets.

Weight reduction, skin problems and Cholesterol reducing diets will be topics included that will interest many Staff and Students alike. So bring your lunch and questions to the Union Courtyard, 1 p.m. 28th June and participate.

Two Assertion Training Groups will commence in 2nd Term.

They will be of 1 hour duration for 8 consecutive weeks.

VENUE: Room 111 Maths Building.

VISIT OF HUMPHREY McQUEEN

The Society of Newcastle University Geography Students (SNUGS) and the History Club are co-sponsoring a visit to the University by Australian historian, author and journalist Humphrey McQueen.

Humphrey will present two seminars for the University. The first, arranged by SNUGS, will be held on Wednesday, July 6th at 1 p.m. in Room B1 (Geography). The topic for this seminar will be the role of academics in Australia.

The second seminar, to be given to the History Club, will deal with the future of history in Australia. It will be held on Thursday, July 7th at 1 p.m. in Room V01.

Humphrey McQueen, born in 1942, gained an honours degree from the University of Queensland where he was also editor of the student newspaper. After teaching at a Victorian High School and being a senior tutor at the Australian National University, he now works as a freelance journalist in Canberra. He is a regular contributor of articles to learned journals as well as writing articles and book reviews for newspapers and magazines. He is the author of A New Britannia which is perhaps the most important book on Australian historiography in the last decade; Aboriginals, Race and Racism; and the recently published Australia's Media Monopolies, and a just-completed book on Australian artist Margaret Preston.

While in Newcastle he will also present a talk to the Gallery Society on Margaret Preston and a lecture to Australian History students on intellectual ideas of the 1920's. All are welcome to attend these seminars.
