Open Day 1979

The University At Work is the theme which has been adopted for the Open Day to be held at the University on Sunday, July 29.

The special campus “happening” has been designed to put the University’s resources on show to the community in a working perspective. Stress will be laid on the practical benefits of University teaching and research not only to students but also taxpayers as a whole.

A great variety of Departments, buildings, exhibitions, demonstrations, items of equipment and resources will be presented to the visitors. In addition, the opportunity will be given to find out about courses and careers, watch sporting events and plays, hear live jazz, join guided tours and share in other activities.

All members of the Newcastle and Hunter Valley communities are welcome - school students, former students of the University, members of staff, parents, children, friends and neighbours.

Some of the main activities:

- A news-sheet giving details of exhibitions, displays and events and containing a map of the campus, will be printed and copies will be distributed to visitors at the entrance to the University.
- So that school-leavers will know about the University’s degree requirements and the qualifications demanded by employers, a Careers Information Centre will operate in the foyer of the Great Hall.
- A small bus will be on call to take aged and handicapped visitors to various points on the campus.

The Vice-Chancellor (Professor Don George) got things moving by announcing at the meeting of the University Council in April that the local community was invited to see over the University on July 29. Professor George has authorised expenditure to meet advertising, printing and other expenses.

Many people have been inspired by the statement which Professor Michael Carter made at one of this year’s graduation ceremonies to the effect that the future of Newcastle and of its University were inextricably interwoven. We hope that all the people who come to the campus on July 29 will support the slogan: “HEY-THIS IS OUR UNIVERSITY”.

In addition, Dr. Moelle expressed the hope that every member of the technical staff will recognise that he or she is a part of the whole University, to the extent that they will contribute one day to the combined effort. Without their help it will be impossible to get Open Day off the ground, he says.

Film Australia

Film Australia has won well-deserved acclaim for such films as the Academy Award-winning animated film, Leisure, and Growing Up, the documentary series that took a prize in the Australian Film Awards last year.

Film Australia has produced The Human Face of China as part of its Asian Neighbours series and, in 1977, The Russians was made on locations throughout the Soviet Union.

There are many other notable productions in Film Australia’s list. The organisation produces an average of 65 films a year, varying greatly in length, style and subject, from features for cinema and T.V. through documentary to short instructional films.

With the assistance of the University, Film Australia will screen a sampling of its productions on the campus in July. The actual programme had not been settled when the News went to press, but it is proposed to present screenings in B01 at lunchtime for five days.

Film Australia is the production arm of the Australian Film Commission.

New Production

A Man's A Man, which is the Department of Drama's second major production for 1979, opens in the Drama Theatre on June 23.

A Man's A Man is a rarely-performed early work by one of the most important playwrights of the first half of this century. It is a comedy and was first performed in 1926.

This was the year of the international release of Charlie Chaplin's The Gold Rush. The influence of Chaplin and silent-screen clowning is quite strong in the play. The plot tells of the transformation of a mild civilian, not unlike the Little Tramp, into a ruthless and successful soldier. It is set vaguely in Kipling's India (Brecht had been reading the "Barrack-Room Ballads") and on one level is a comment on imperialism and militarism. But as a parable about human nature the play is timelessly wise and funny.

The script is often hilariously reminiscent of a Marx Bros. movie and also contains some of the first fruits of Brecht's collaboration with Kurt Weill (the collaboration which was soon to produce the popular success, The Threepenny Opera.). Hopefully people seeing the play may have held about Brecht's entertainment value.

The Director is Ken Boucher, who has worked with the A.B.C. and N.I.D.A. The actual dates for performances: June 20 to 23, June 27 to 30 and July 4 to 7.

INDONESIAN CHINESE

Professor J.A.C. Mackie, of The School of Pacific Studies, the Australian National University, has been invited to the University by the Board of Asian Studies. He will give two lectures entitled "Indonesian Chinese - Their Economic and Social Roles."

Professor Mackie, who has done considerable research in Indonesia, sees the role of the Chinese minorities within South-East Asia as a very important one.

The lectures will be held in R04 (Geography) on Friday, June 22 at 11.00 am and 2.00 pm.

MEET BRIAN JACKSON

The Community Child Care Centre in the University grounds is the place where people will be able to meet Mr. Brian Jackson, founder and Director of the United Kingdom's National Children's Centre.

The leading English Educationalist has come to Australia to advise the organisers of Contact, which aims to reach people who are caring for children in both geographically and socially isolated circumstances.

In addition to his position with the National Children's Centre at Huddersfield, Mr. Jackson is Director of the National Educational Research and Development Trust.

Mr. Jackson will give an address caring for kids at the Centre in Rankin Drive on June 19 at 7.30pm.

For those people who are not able to hear Mr. Jackson at the Community Child Care Centre a lecture will be given in Room B15 at the Newcastle College of Advanced Education on June 19 at 4.30 pm.

Letters

Dear Sir,

I find the garish lettering on the Commonwealth Bank building quite out of character on a campus as beautiful as ours. The more discreet signs on the east and west walls of the Bank are both adequate and acceptable. If the new lettering is necessary then why cannot it be of a more subdued colour than bright yellow to be in harmony with the building name on, say, the Basden Theatre opposite?

COLIN KEAY, Physics Department.

Female Chaplain

Rev. Joy Bartholomew

The first woman to be ordained in the New South Wales Presbyterian Church is a new arrival on campus as a Chaplain.

Reverend Joy Bartholomew is looking forward to meeting students and staff as she represents the Presbyterian Church.

Joy and her husband, Reverend Arnold Bartholomew, jointly control the affairs of the Presbyterian Parish of Western Newcastle, adjoining the University. They moved to this district from West Wyalong.

Joy holds the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in Melbourne College of Divinity and is one of only two female Presbyterian ministers in New South Wales.

New Acquisitions

Professor Short, Deputy Vice-Chancellor, studies Louis James' River Bank and Moths.

Four paintings which have been acquired for the Art Collection of the University include works by three artists who have links with Newcastle.

Hanging in the foyer of the Great Hall are Sublime Landscape, by Gordon Rintoul, who is a Lecturer at the Art School at Newcastle College of Advanced Education, and Wounded Owl in Nangkita Road, a work by Tom Gleghorn, who trained as an engineer at the B.H.P. Steel Works and received help with his painting from Sir William Dobell.

Other interesting new acquisitions are a painting by Edward Lysaght, who through his family has connections with John Lysaght (Aust.) Ltd., one of Newcastle's pioneer heavy industries, and a painting by Louis James. The Lysaght is titled New South Wales Forest, Oxley Highway, and James' work is called River Bank Moths.

Wounded Owl in Nangkita Road, by Tom Gleghorn.
Dr. Richard Lewis

Dr. Richard Lewis, Rothmans Fellow from South Africa, has been working with the Department of Electrical Engineering.

His Fellowship is sponsored by Rothmans of Pall Mall (Aust.) Ltd., to encourage higher education and research for the benefit of Australia. The company endeavours to retain in Australia, or to bring to Australia, scholars who would otherwise have been lost to other countries. Since 1960, 57 fellowships have been awarded.

Dr. Lewis holds a B.Sc. degree with honours in the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, and a Ph.D. degree in Imperial College, London. His doctorate was the result of research in the field of Automatic Control. Before coming to Newcastle he held a post-doctoral post as an applied mathematician at the University of Bath.

Since September, 1978, Dr. Lewis has worked on the campus with Professor B.D.O. Anderson, Professor of Electrical Engineering. They have delved into Stability of Time Delayed Systems and other research topics.

He stated that he was attracted to Newcastle by the good reputation of the Electrical Engineering Department, in particular the work done in Automatic Control.

Dr. Lewis' wife, Janice, and daughter, Joanna, have also enjoyed living in Newcastle. He intends to take up an appointment with John Lysaght (Aust.) Ltd., which will allow him and his family to stay here.

Mr. Max Spaanenburg, President of the Newcastle University Students' Association, is proposing that a human resources centre be established in Newcastle similar to centres he saw recently in the Netherlands.

Mr. Spaanenburg said he had the support of some students, who were offering their design and building skills and assistance as counsellors.

"There is a demand from people in need for a refuge, providing accommodation, welfare, legal and social aid, drug advice and other assistance", he stated.

In contrast to the St. Vincent De Paul Society, the Salvation Army and other welfare organisations whose resources are fully extended, the University of Newcastle possesses expertise, knowledge and manpower and is in a good position to supply this sort of assistance.

Initially, a suitable building, preferably in an old part of town, must be found. He proposed that after architecture students had remodelled the centre and furniture had been installed, students and staff of the University could give help to the residents on a roster basis. Lecturers could advise the students what to do and they could become involved in other ways.

Mr. Spaanenburg has asked the Students' Representative Council to give its approval to the proposal.

In cities overseas like Arnhem, in The Netherlands, concerned members of the community were achieving worthwhile results through human resource centres with the co-operation of ordinary citizens, he said.

Staff and students made up each of the teams. Followers of KB United would not have been excited by the standard of soccer played. However the good looks of some of the female players, wearing brief shorts, and the free-and-easy approach to the game were compensations.

The merriment did not end at the whistle. After a short interval, more games were played, with French taking out the three-legged race and winning the egg-throwing contest on a forfeit.

The match will be conducted annually owing to the success of the inaugural event.
This University will host to male and female basketballers for the Inter-Varsity contests in the August Vacation. The venues are The Basketball Stadium at the Newcas­tle University and Wickham Stadium. The contests will run from August 26 to 31.

Male and female Orienteering contests will be conducted from August 31 to September 2. The Amenities Section and the Mountaineering Club are being assisted by Mr. Selby Alley, Student Counsellor at the Uni­versity for many years.

It is anticipated that Newcastle University will participate in all Inter-Varsity competitions in August. The Golf contest will be held at Melbourne Uni­versity from August 26 to 31. The Skiing contest at Monash from August 28 to September 1, and the Squash competitions at Adelaide from August 27 to September 1, Cross Country at the Aus­tralian National University in a period to be announced and Monash will organise a Skiing competi­tion from August 26 to September 1.

There is a resurgence of interest in "Cheek-to-Cheek", Ballroom-style dancing. According to reports Discos will soon reverberate to the beat of the "Strict Tempo" Fox-Trot, slow Fox-Trot and Tango.

If you are not prepared for this development then you would be well advised to take a few less­ons in Ballroom Dancing from Robyn Hollings. Robyn's popular recreation class meets every Wednesday evening in The Southern Cross Lounge from 7 pm to 8.30 pm.

Students and staff are cordially invited to attend.

The Australian Badminton Championships will be conducted in the Auchmuty Sports Centre from August 27 to 31 and from Septem­ber 3 to 7. Further detailed information will be provided at a later date.

The Australian Badminton Championships will be conducted in the Auchmuty Sports Centre from August 27 to 31 and from September 3 to 7. Further detailed information will be provided at a later date.

Students and members of staff are cordially invited to attend a meeting of University Water Skiing Club in the Michael Nelson Room in The Union on June 21 at 1 pm.

Points for discussion:
- Participation by Club Members at the Water Skiing Inter-Varsity competition in Adel­laide in February, 1980.
- Training for the Inter-Varsity competition.
- The proposed week-end skiing trip to Gwindalano on Lake Macquarie.

A special call is made for men and women wanting to train and compete over the long vacation period. The University owns (for competition) three good regulation fours, one very nice racing eight and a superb best and best four.

Non-competitive/social rowing will continue to be available on Sunday mornings (9 am).

Anyone interested, or requiring further information, should contact Professor Godfrey Fanner (extension 604). Mr. Tom Osborn (67 2644), Mr. Harry Bradford (extension 344) and Mr. Jack Armstrong (extension 469) of the Amenities Office.

The University Tennis Club has extended invitations to students and members of staff to attend a Thursday evening instruction and social session. They commenced on June 7 and are conducted from 7 pm until 8.30 pm. A qualified instructor is in attendance.

The sessions will be held weekly, provided that the weather is good and attendances are maintained at a sufficiently high level to warrant the instructor’s services.

It has been announced, that a combined Oxford and Cambridge cricket team will make a tour of Australia in December and January.

Newcastle University Athletics performed well in recent weeks. The Newcastle and Central Coast Branch Marathon was held recently at Williamstown over the gruelling 42.195km journey. The University team, comprising Paul Buckley (seventh in three hours, 1 minute), Paul Manuel (twelfth in three hours, eight minutes) and Trevor Scott (thirteenth in three hours, nine minutes) won the teams' section. The win was surprising in that all team members had been batt­ling injuries for a number of weeks and competed in the race in a very low-key fashion.

Club Secretary, Dick Parberry, also ran well. finishing 24th in 3:22. An unprecedented 70 runners lined up for the start of the event and many faces of raw determination comprised the 45 finishers. Tom Scott, a 64-year-old competing in his first marathon, registered the good time of 3:38 and then competed in the Tempo Fox-Trot Run (10km) the next day. The winner Brian Morgan, recorded the good time of 2:27.

Dick Parberry, making light of his efforts in the marathon of the previous week, placed second in the Handicap Cross Country race held at Lake Munmorah on June 2. Dick registered the good time of 32:27 for the 8km event over the hilly (and sandy!) Bertie Beach course. Bon Gray, also of University, finished sixth in Handicap, but recorded the third fastest time of 27:20 (best 27:10). Bon is presently undergoing a strong build up for the July 100 and hence his effort in this race was quite commendable.

COMING EVENTS:

June 23 - N.S.W. Marathon (42km) at Nowra. Half Marathon (21km) at Williamstown.

June 27 - University Athletics Club meets in Squash Pavilion Common Room, 7.30 pm.

June 30 - Handicap Cross Country (13km) at Wallsend.

NOTE: The Inter-Varsity Cross Country Championships will be held on two days in the week, August 27 to 31 (in the school holidays!).

Anyone who desires further details, or wishes to join University Athletics Club, can contact Dick Parberry (Mechanical Engineering) or Terry Wall (Chemical Engineering).
Teachers' Place

For the majority of Diploma of Education students, the Curriculum Resource Centre in the Behavioural Sciences Building becomes an integral part of their way of life.

Established in February, 1974, to house all the curriculum materials (both primary and secondary) which the Department of Education had purchased for Diploma of Education Curriculum and Method courses, the Centre has been continually expanding and developing since that time.

Originally an Executive Committee of three people was responsible for the day to day running of the centre, with Mr. J.W. McQualter Lecturer-in-Charge. He was helped in 1974 by one half-time typist, who was joined by one full-time staff appointed (graduate library assistant and laboratory assistant) and also retained the services of the laboratory assistant. It was at this time that the Centre moved into the permanent quarters specially designed for it.

Now conveniently located, the Centre occupies an area of approximately 5000 square feet. It is comprised of a science laboratory and preparation area, staff offices, post-graduate student rooms, a reprographic area, discussion area, stack and study area. Within these areas, students are encouraged to discuss their courses and ideas with each other.

The Curriculum Resource Centre is not only used by Diploma of Education students. Much of the material held in the Centre is of use to both undergraduate and postgraduate students in the Education Faculty. Official publications from the various State Government Departments of Education are housed within the Centre. With the aid of these resources, teaching and research can be carried out into curriculum development and change.

The majority of the Centre's collection of materials is comprised of teaching and classroom resources.

Although a large range of books and journals are purchased by the Centre, they are not the same as would generally be found in a university library. Samples of textbooks which are normally found in both primary and secondary schools are housed in the Centre. These are not only of great use to Diploma of Education students in lesson preparation and for practice teaching but also help to make the student aware of what is available on the market for purchase. Consequently, if a student is posted to an isolated school in his first year of education, he has the opportunity of using the Centre's resources before going to the school, and also enjoyed to the teaching of a certain subject.

Intermingled with the various books on the shelves are the many filmstrips, teaching kits, slides, overhead transparencies, sets of filmstrips, tapes, models, simulation games, pictures and video-tapes (both colour and black and white) which the Centre has been collecting from its beginnings.

Not all of these have been purchased from commercial sources. Interesting radio and television programmes are recorded by the Department's Technical Officer and added to the collection.

Students from previous years have prepared slide sets and overhead transparencies for use with a class during practice teaching, and at the end of this time these items have been catalogued by the Centre to be used by others in the future.

To encourage the maximum usage of the audio-visual resources in the Centre, the audio-visual room has been equipped with a variety of audio-visual machines. A video cassette machine, overhead projectors, film projector, slide projectors, cassette players, etc., are all available for student use.

Initially instructed in the use of these machines by a member of the Curriculum Resource Centre staff, students are then free to use them at any time. This also helps to prepare the student for life as a teacher. When actually appointed to a school, he is better able to analyse his performance with the class.

Video-tapes are also made of each Diploma of Education student as he teaches a group from a nearby school. By viewing this tape afterwards, he is better able to analyse his performance with the class.

Modelled on similar Teacher Education Centres developed in the United Kingdom, the U.S.A. and other parts of Australia, this University's Curriculum Resource Centre provides more than just teaching resources for its many users. In its relaxed and friendly atmosphere, students enjoy a cup of coffee or tea while discussing their ideas or problems.

Teachers from both State and Private Schools in the region often drop in personally after school or during vacations to browse through the collection of materials. Schools from further afield often telephone with requests for various items. In most of these cases, the Curriculum Resource Centre is able to provide valuable assistance.

The real value of the Centre is best illustrated, however, by the numbers of Diploma of Education students from previous years who return to Newcastle during their school vacations and call in at the Centre to use the resources available here in preparation for their next term's work.

Mrs. Helen Durell is Supervisor of the Curriculum Resource Centre. The other staff members are Mrs. J. Keating (graduate library assistant), Mr. R. Secrett (laboratory assistant) and Mrs. P. Hoschke (receptionist and typist).

WANTED - ALIVE OR DEAD

Spider, Wasp, Ants or Ticks

Have YOU a funnel web spider or one of its relatives, do you have wasps in the back shed, 'Bull Dog' ants in the yard, or ticks on your pets?

If so, I would like to know. I am doing research into venomous spiders and insects and hope to carry out research as an honours student next year.

Ask your friends, ask anyone to save those Arachnids.

I am interested in all possibilities to call anytime, (Richard Hodgson) telephone: 57 3424 or extension 718.
