RESCISSION MOVE
ON AUTONOMY
DAY DAMAGE

In the wake of Autonomy Day, the Students' Association is justifiably concerned about the continuance of this annual fiasco perpetrated in the name of carrying on the "traditions" of the University.

Once again the paltry few dollars raised for charity has been offset by a swathe of damage totalling over three thousand dollars. We are bemused by the attitude of a minority of the student population who expect the all-embracing charity of the Students' Association to shield their every misdemeanour and to pay out over half that amount from association funds in repair bills, fines and the like. Certainly the association sympathises with the plight of the student population who expect the all-embracing charity of the Students' Association to shield their every misdemeanour and to pay out over half that amount from association funds in repair bills, fines and the like. As president I have given notice of rescission of the motion passed on August 5th. This will be discussed at a general meeting on September 9th and will be voted on by ballot over two days in the SRC office thus affording part-time students as well as the lunch-time crowd the opportunity to express their opinion. It is hoped that students will recognise that individually or as a group they do not have the power under the constitution to make such demands on the Students' Association and will rescind the motion.

With the information presently available to them the executive of the Association feels it would be acting irresponsibly in the extreme to accede to the demands of the August 5th general meeting, in that firstly they would contravene the constitution, thus placing the continuance of the Association in jeopardy, and secondly that to set such a precedent would not only condone those unlawful and irresponsible actions taken this year but would also invite students to perpetrate similar crimes and misdemeanours next year and in years to come.

In brief, the objects of the SRC are:

b. To promote the social and intellectual life of the Students' Association,

c. To promote the interests and maintain the traditions of the Students' Association and the University,

d. To protect and enhance the general well-being of members of the Students' Association,

e. To afford recognised means of communication between the Students Association and other bodies within the University of Newcastle.

We are not here to wipe the noses of idle miscreants, who seek to use the Students' Association as an umbrella under which they may do as they like rather than have the intestinal fortitude to own up and accept responsibility for their actions or, in the very least, to do something about raising some money to pay for the damage they cause.

If students think the above is a very heavy statement they might like to tell me where I am going to get the money to pay $1400 demanded by the University. They might also like to tell me when I am going to make up time for the last fortnight I have wasted trying to sort out the Autonomy Day mess, and when I'll have time again to work for the general well-being of members of the Students' Association.

TRIP TO FINLAND
FOR ECONOMETRICIAN

Dr P.C. Ip, Lecturer in Economics, has left Australia to visit Helsinki, where, from August 23 to 27, he will attend the European meeting of the International Econometric Society. He will present a paper dealing with fiscal policies and the natural rate of unemployment.
RETURNED FROM SOUTHERN AFRICA

Early in July, Lecturer in Economics, C.W. "Chuck" Stahl, went to southern Africa at the invitation of the United Nations African Institute for Economic Development and Planning. He stayed two weeks to participate in a workshop organized by the Institute on Rural Environment and Development Planning in southern Africa. From what Mr. Stahl has written to University News, the people of Southern Africa need to be more involved in their own development.

The workshop was held in Gaborone, capital of Botswana. There were 56 participants from a number of countries and representing a wide variety of disciplines. The workshop focused on Botswana, Lesotho, Malawi, Mozambique, Swaziland and Zambia.

The basic objectives of the workshop were: To review the methodology of research on the rural environment and development planning with a view to improving research methods. To critically assess past and present policies and practices directed toward the development of the rural environment. Through an integrated multidisciplinary approach to the study of the rural environment, make it possible for local researchers and decision makers in all sectors and at all levels to have a more comprehensive view of the problems and prospects of rural development in the hope that present efforts at rural development can be more effectively integrated.

In the first week of the workshop papers were delivered and debated. I presented two papers, one on Customary Land Tenure and Agricultural Efficiency and another on Organization of Migrant Labour in Southern Africa.

On July 17 the participants broke up into three groups, each going to a village. My group went to Mochudi, some 30 miles north of Gaborone. Each person in the group stayed with an African family in the village. Working through interpreters when necessary, we collected information on all aspects of village life. We asked people what they saw as their primary problems and what they thought would be the best way to solve them. We spoke to community development officers, agricultural extension staff, health officials, etc., to obtain information on their programmes. We were particularly interested in seeing which direction, i.e. from which group, the information which resulted in policies and programmes emanated.

We returned to Gaborone on July 21 and immediately began working on our reports, collating the mounds of information we had obtained. Our main conclusions and proposals: The majority of the countries lack any comprehensive integrated approach to rural development. Existing policies are the result of compartmentalized research and deal with a variety of symptoms of rural underdevelopment. In some cases this approach could, in the longer run, compound the more fundamental underlying problems.

In almost all cases policies and programmes originated and were imposed from above. This has created a kind of dependence complex on the part of the people. What is needed is to involve the people in their own development to decide what the priorities are, and to have them organize and direct the effort needed to realize their objectives.

In summary, what is needed is a radical decentralization of decision making power and the funds necessary to realize locally determined objectives. The role of the central government should be to ensure that locally determined objectives are not inconsistent with broader national objectives concerning income distribution, employment creation, integration of the national economy, etc. As it now stands, the central governments design and implement costly policies on a national level which deal with problems which may be of little concern or are low on the priority list of the inhabitants of many villages.

Footnote: Mr. Stahl's interest in the affairs of Southern Africa dates from the time he began teaching at the University of Botswana, Lesotho, Swaziland under the Fulbright programme. He was there from 1971 to 1973. His Ph.D. thesis dealt with migrant labour and the gold-mining industry.

THE CREDIT UNION

Loans are now available from the Credit Union for amounts up to $2000. Any member can borrow up to $1000 on an unsecured basis and repayments can be made over a period of 24 months. The rate of interest is 1.333% reducible on the monthly balance, which is equivalent to 8.87% per annum. Loans over $1000 are available after approved security being offered. Members are advised that their Credit Union has ample funds available for loans at present.

Mrs. Sydney Stevens has now been appointed to the position of Honorary Treasurer and replaces Trevor Askie. Trevor resigned owing to pressures of study and the Board expressed their appreciation for the work he has been so well in the past. Sydney, or a Director of the Board, will be at the Credit Union office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12 noon to 2 pm to discuss any financial problems.

Margaret Davie and Barry Robinson, Directors of the Board, attended a Credit Union League Regional Conference at Newcastle Workers Club on August 7. The conferences are held to discuss the views of various Credit Unions in New South Wales, and the results are then put before the Annual General Meeting held in Sydney each year.

We would like to remind members that Application Forms are available from the Credit Union Office for Child Endowment payments to be paid directly into Credit Union Savings at 5-1/2% interest per annum.

DIFFERENCES SEEN BETWEEN UNITS AND CASES

The report of the Academic Salaries Tribunal which followed an inquiry lasting fourteen months, was released on July 23. The Commonwealth Government has not yet announced whether it will adopt the Tribunal's recommendations.

The Tribunal, the Hon. Mr Justice Campbell, reviewed universities and colleges. Academic employment on all levels, not just in respect of universities and colleges in the assessment of the proper salaries which should be paid to academic staff. The university lecturer is playing a greater role than hitherto in postgraduate teaching. This places upon university lecturers a more exacting responsibility because it demands a greater intellectual effort from the supervisor of these students.

"The commitment to research on the part of university staff imposes on them demands both as to time and intellectual application. Many college staff engage in research activities because it is part of the same uniformly demanding level as that required of university staff. These differences, together with differences in the ways by which and in the sources from which, the two groups of academic staff are recruited and prepared for their teaching roles, leads the Tribunal to conclude "that it would not be proper to have the salary and classification structure identical in both systems."

While the salary range for senior lecturers in colleges of advanced education is the same as that proposed for university staff, the scale is split into two grades with more, and subsequently smaller, incremental steps.

Similarly three grades of lecturer are proposed for colleges of advanced education, the lowest being below that of university lecturers. The recommended salaries were arrived at by the Tribunal after detailed consideration of matters relating to work value, "catch-up" and other factors. Mr Justice Campbell says in his report, "I am satisfied that in arriving at these new salary levels, this Tribunal, kept within the spirit of the guidelines (of the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Commission) "as long as the principles are observed in the determination of salaries for other groups, I do not foresee that any future adjustments to the salaries could be justified on these arguments." However, Mr Justice Campbell has recommended that academic staff should continue to receive adjustments following national wage case decisions. Mr Justice Campbell was assisted by Mr M.C. Timbs, a senior Commonwealth public servant, Professor D. Cochrane, Dean of the Faculty of Economics and Politics, Monash University, and Mr R.E. Parry, who was, until recently, Deputy Vice-President, Victoria Institute of Colleges.

ART EXHIBITION

Plans for the Art Exhibition to be held in the Great Hall from September 10 to 12 are now well advanced and all members of the University community are asked to remember the Gala Opening (8 pm, September 10) as well as the University Collection, the exhibition will include many interesting works lent by members of the University. Contributions to the Lord Mayor's Hunter Regional Art Gallery Appeal to date total $295. Can you help make the total more appropriate to the University?

Further information about the exhibition and the appeal can be obtained from Professor Short (407).

RESIDENTIAL POETRY WORKSHOP

This course - to be held at the Morpeth Conference Centre from September 6 to 9 - will give people the opportunity to work with eight Australian poets. The main emphasis will be on close examination and discussion of poetry in small groups under the guidance of the resident poets.

There will also be readings in the evenings and general sessions each day at which some of the poets will lead discussion on important movements and developments in the world of poetry. The Resident Poets for the Workshop are: Ross Bennett, Merv Lilley, Dorothy Hewitt, Tom Naishby, Louis Johnson, Roland Robinson, Paul Kavanagh and Keith Russell.

The fee for the workshop is $40. Arrangements have been made by the Department of Community Programmes and the Workers' Educational Association.
The Department of Community Programmes has organised a special seminar on the implications of the Budget which will be delivered next Tuesday. To be given by Ian Vaileschutsky from the Department of Commerce, it will be held in V01 7-9 pm, Friday, August 20th. The seminar will concentrate on the impact of the August Budget on income tax matters. The changes to the Income Tax Assessment Act which will be necessary as a result of the August Budget will be outlined and discussed. The major changes introduced in the "Mini-Budget" on 20 May, 1976 will also be outlined and discussed.

Items likely to be included in the budget include a partial introduction of tax indexation for companies and a reduction in the primary rate of tax on taxable incomes of companies. The implications of these changes and any changes to the personal tax system will be discussed. All Welcome.

The Department of Community Programmes will again help the Sydney Film Festival to screen a short season of films in Newcastle. The "film festival" will be held at the Civic Theatre on September 24, 25 and 26. The programme will consist of these films (screened first in Australia at the Sydney Film Festival last June): Nives (Norway, 1975); Director Anja Breien. The Lost Honour of Katharina Blum (West Germany, 1975), Directors, Volker Schlondorff and Margarethe Von Trotta. The Balance (Poland, 1975), Director, Krzysztof Zanussi. The Devil's Playground (Australia, 1975), Director, Fred Schepisi. The First Swallow (Russia, 1975), Director, Nana Mchelidze. The Travelling Players (Greece, 1975), Director Theodor Angelopoulos. The cost of subscription tickets for all six films will be $9.50 (students and pensioners $7.50). Single tickets will cost $2.50 (students $1.75). Tickets and further information will be available shortly at David Jones, the Civic Theatre, the Union and Newcastle CAE.

JAPANESE ECONOMY IS RECOVERING

In his speech to Newcastle Branch of The Economics Society Mr Chis Hurford, MHR for Adelaide and Shadow Treasurer, referred to his recent visit to Japan and the current economic situation.

"In spite of a conservative government ruling Japan, we found no ideological "hang-ups" with slashing government spending and mutilating the public sector", Mr Hurford said.

"They know the value of public spending to stimulate demand during a time of under-employment of men, women and resources. They have used the policy wisely. Their economy is so bound up with their handiwork. We are a great trading nation. Just as our troubles recently have mostly been sponsored by the world trade cycle recession, so our recovery will be sponsored by a higher level of economic activity overseas."

Mr Hurford was the Economic Society's guest at a meeting in the Staff Conference Room, Faculty of Economics and Commerce.

He said the Liberal and National Country Party conservatives who were in power now, and who were in power in the 1950s and 1960s and early 1970s, ignored the recommendations of the Jackson Committee. They were being slow to act in relation to the Jackson Committee recommendations - and they would probably ignore the Coombs Royal Commission Report.

"All that Liberal and National Country Party policies have done so far is postpone our recovery. We are the only developed nation which has worse unemployment now than eight months ago."

WHAT DO YOU WANT TO BE WHEN YOU GROW UP?

Choosing a suitable career is an important and sometimes difficult decision.

A new measure of vocational and educational planning now in use is not the Indirected Search. This is a questionnaire which is virtually self-administered, self-scored and self-interpreted, and if done seriously, can throw up new areas of vocational choice for individuals to consider, or confirm that the areas of vocational choice they have chosen are indeed consonant with their personality.

The Counselling Service believes that this area is worth looking into more closely and would invite any students who are interested to take part in the group to call in at the Service (Administration Building, Room 063), or at the Careers and Employment Office (Temporary Building, Room T25), and leave their name and address. The three sessions will be held weekly in lunch-hour at the beginning of Third Term.

SPORING NEWS

Arnis Lee was the winner of the final of the singles in the University's Handicap Table Tennis Championships. He defeated Tony Ng 31 to 29.

Meng Goon and Ngyen Tan Hung won the final of the doubles. They beat Mike Covill and Lam Hoo Ong.

Twenty two table tennis players entered. They took part in trials to receive their handicaps. The Championships were held at the Auchmuty Sports Centre on August 1.

A number of 1976 Olympians have been invited to attend the subscription dinner for Newcastle Amateur Athletics Association in Edwards Hall on August 21. Invitations were issued to Steve Holland, Graeme Cruick, Ian Rush, Warren Parr, Denise Robertson, Debbie Wells and Chris Wardlaw and Newcastle Olympians Sonia Gray, Peter Coglan, Phil McIlwaine and Don Brook.

The dinner will be a fundraising event, with the aim of helping the AAA to provide an all-weather track in Newcastle. Any member of the university interested in attending is requested to contact the Amenities Office. The cost will be $12.50 head.

Technical College was the winner of the Intertertiary tennis competition held at the university on July 25.

University's senior soccer team seems certain to be promoted into the Second Division next year. The team, competing in the Third Division, First Grade, is easily leading the points-score with 37 points. Belmont is next with 31 points.

University defeated Stockton 6-1 on August 8.

The following sporting clubs will represent the university in Inter-varsity contests from August 23 to 27 during the current vacations:

Volleyball, men and women (University of Queensland).

Squash, men (Queensland).

Basketball, men and women (University of Tasmania).

Women's Hockey (University of Melbourne).

Glyn Cox will represent Newcastle at the Cross Country Running Championships at the University of New South Wales.

Mr H. Bradford or Mr N. Keats wish to be contacted by golfers who would enjoy playing in the Intertertiary Staff Golf Competition at Steel Works on September 17.
SCHOLARSHIPS, FELLOWSHIPS

The Rhodes Trust has applied for, and has been granted, a Ministerial Order authorizing the award of Rhodes Scholarships in 1977.

The Order, made under the recent United Kingdom legislation concerning equity in appointment, provides that it has been necessary to release the Trust from the restrictions on eligibility set out in an earlier Order. The trust believes that in issuing this, the following is true:

- The largest group, 32, come to the United Kingdom to study and will be eligible for the following categories:
  - Category A - University Teachers or Officers on recondisional leave.
  - Category B - University Scholars invited by universities for short courses.

- The majority of grants will be made to persons in this category, and preference will be given to university officers of at least five years' standing.

- The $14,000 will be made to persons in the following categories:
  - Category C - Postgraduate University Research Scholars holding research grants.

- Grants in this category will be strictly limited in number. The grants are intended for research workers (Category C) with the necessary academic training to undertake research at a university institution in another Commonwealth country under the scheme.

- Additional assistance is given towards the cost of their own fares.

In some instances, the Secretary of the NSW Selection Board will be responsible for arranging accommodation and the cost of their own fares.

Further information may be obtained from the Secretary, University of New South Wales, PO Box 1, Kensington 2033. The cost is $1.50 per copy including postage.

The University of New South Wales Launches Journal

The University of New South Wales has published a new journal, Occasional Papers, which will contain the proceedings of symposia held at the university.

Issue No. 3 reports in detail the day-long symposium on Noise which the University of New South Wales conducted last November following the introduction of the new Noise Control Act.

Copies are available from the Public Affairs Unit, University of New South Wales, PO Box 1, Kensington 2033. The cost is $1.90 per copy including postage.
SOCIAL IMPACT PAPERS CAN BE BOUGHT

Papers presented at the workshop/conference which considered the effects of development projects on people have been published by the organisers - the Board of Environmental Studies and the Department of Community Programmes. Articles in the collection include discussions of the Social Component of Environmental Impact Statements, an outline of State Pollution Control Commission procedures, case studies of a proposed power station and a mining project and a report on the problems faced by Environmental Consultants. Copies of the collection are available from Mr J.C. Collins, Senior Tutor, Department of Community Programmes, for $5 each.

WOOL RESEARCH TRUST FUNDS

Advice has been received from the Australian Wool Corporation that it has decided that the closing date for the receipt of applications for support during 1977/78 will be 28th January, 1977. Forms have not yet been received by the University.

STAFF HOUSE CLUB BOTTLING

A quality red wine will be bottled at the Staff House on Saturday, 18th September. People who wish to assist in the bottling should contact Mr H. Floyer as soon as possible.

CONFESSION CREATES PROBLEMS

The Hunter Valley Theatre Company's current production, Bedfellows, written by Barry Oakley, of Melbourne, has a 42-year-old academic as its leading character. Paul Cummings, a Tutor in English, confesses to his wife, Carol, that he has recently had an affair with one of his students. Instead of being shocked she is greatly amused; she reveals that she is carrying on with Jill Butler, Paul's best friend. Carol is in the process of re-evaluating her life. She has borne her children and is enrolled at La Trobe in Philosophy.

The play is a funny analysis of modern life in renovated, present-day Carlton. Bedfellows is directed by Michael Rolfe and the cast is Kerry Walker, Robert Alexander and Tony Sheldon. The play is being presented in the Arts/Drama Theatre every night except Monday. On Sundays the production starts at 5 pm.

As readers of the local press know the affairs of the Hunter Valley Theatre Company have reached a crisis. The company has sustained a shortfall of $8000 in its first six months. A meeting of people interested in the HVT and its future will be held in the Supper Room of the City Hall on August 22 at 7.30 pm. In particular, the company's financial problems and its need for a permanent home will be discussed. The Company - the first regional professional theatre company formed in Australia - is inviting people to become Foundation Members. Money paid for this sort of membership complements ticket sales, commercial and government support and other receipts to allow the company to survive. For $10 a person can become a Foundation Member of the HVT. Members are entitled to vote at meetings and stand for the Board of Directors. The Company also offers each member a concession on tickets, a newsletter, special members' nights, preferential booking privileges - and the satisfaction of being involved in this pioneering community venture. The form below can be used to join:

To the Hon. Secretary, HVTC, PO Box 344d, Newcastle, NSW 2300

I/We
apply for Foundation Membership of the Hunter Valley Theatre Company. I/We agree to be bound by the Articles of Association. I/We enclose $          (being at least $10.00 per membership).
